CCC proudly announces our own Florence Sage and "Spoken Art Presented as Therapy!"

Florence Sage, Social Science Instructor and Counselor at Clatsop Community College was selected by the Alcohol and Drug Problems Association (ADPA) of North America to present a workshop at ADPA's 14th Annual Women's Issues Conference held last October.

Her workshop, entitled, "Using Creative Spoken Word as Therapy" based on primary and secondary research, was part of the conference's presentations on addiction prevention and recovery strategies.

The presentation included a unique synthesis of what is currently known about physiological changes in the brain during the following processes: the creative act, the retrieval of personal emotional memories, reconstruction of memories into art, speaking one's artistic product aloud, and the brain structure and chemistry of addiction. Sage drew conclusions, based on current brain chemistry, about how "spoken word-art" can change self-concept and problematic behavior. For the personal experience of "spoken word-art" as therapy, Sage interviewed and surveyed members of the Slam Sisters, a national organization of women poets who use "spoken word" primarily. Sage is a counselor at CCC, a PTK advisor, and instructor of social sciences.

Winter quarter brings another opportunity to learn more about drug use, misuse and addiction from Sage. In HS 102 students gain knowledge about mind/mood-altering drugs; the social and psychological context of their use; their effects on body, brain, behavior, and quality of life; considerations in prevention and treatment of drug problems. The course will be Mon & Wed. , 5:30 -7:30 p.m. Winter quarter. Ms. Sage is also a poet, co-host of the monthly "Monday Mike for spoken word" at The River Theater in Astoria, poetry editor for Hipfish arts & culture monthly and is actively involved in coordinating the Fisher Poets gathering next February. Below is a sample of personal work.

from SAD SEPTEMBER

Reluctant images
wrapped in a fireman's coat,
in your gentle hands, carried
down these charred and crumbling days,
patted patiently goodnight,
you hope to save enough to piece together,
make some sense, understand.

But across the lining of your autumn heart
and mine, pictures have been burned,
and concrete still falls, and mortal dust,
and we won't quite sleep or laugh aloud
this stunned September.

SCHOLARSHIP INFORMATION

~Scholarship Information~

The $4,000 Pell Grant Maximum award contained in both the House and Senate versions of the FY 2002 appropriations bill is in jeopardy due to the estimated increasing numbers of eligible students qualifying for Pell Grants and the expected increasing cost of the program. Both NASFAA and the Student Aid Alliance feel that phone calls or e-mail communications to Congress will be effective in avoiding a reduction of the maximum award to last years level. WASFAA will send an e-mail letter supporting this campaign but you and your students can easily send a pre-written message by going to:

www.studentaidalliance.org, clicking on "contact Washington", entering your zip code and automatically sending a message to all your Congressional leaders. Please take a few minutes now to work on saving the $4,000 Pell Grant for needy students nationwide!

Somewhere There's an Angel

Somewhere there's an angel.
Just waiting in the wings for you Keeping a loving lookout
and helping to see you through.
You'll have the blessing of an angel
behind the scenes of your days,
there to catch any tears that fall
and here for you always.
The sweetest reassurance
as the year ahead unfolds
is to know in your heart
that you're never alone.
And it's such a comfort to know...
that your smile will always
shine bright in your life,
along with the blessing
of beautiful things.
Because somewhere
you have an angel...
just waiting in the wings.

Arts & Ideas

RHYS THOMAS AND THE SHOEHORN

November 30, 2001
7:30 PM
CCC Performing Arts Center

Rhys Thomas will be the guest artist at the Performing Arts Center on Friday, November 30, 2001 at 7:30 PM. Circus artist Rhys Thomas defines juggling as “dances with stuff” and his performance promises to be a comedy extravaganza that will amuse and delight all ages. The Wall Street Journal defines Rhys Thomas as being “in touch with your inner baffoon.” The event is a “tour de farce” of amazing acrobatics, unique comedy, and improbable juggling in which the audience takes an active role. In Rhys’ own words: “We live in a world of stuff. We can trip on it or balance on it, drop it or fly it, battle with it or dance with it. Gravity or levity, the choice is yours.”

Rhys Thomas has performed his unique blend of hilarity and dexterity in such diverse venues as The Smithsonian Institute (as artist in residence) and as the only American in the 1999 World Cup of Street Performer Competition in Shizuoka, Japan. He opened for Vice President Al Gore in 1998 at the Discovery Science Center in Santa Ana, California.

Rhys also appeared in an NBC/Disney movie, “To my Daughter with Love”, where he juggled on stilts.

Rhys is Juggling columnist for America’s premiere family entertainer’s family entertainer’s magazine (“LaughMakers”), the author of “Meteors” (a juggling manual), and recipient of the Ben Linder Memorial Award for Inspiration.

Leave your worries and troubles behind, bring your family and friends, and join us for an evening of delightful entertainment that will make you laugh so hard, it will be a challenge to breathe.

- Tickets can be purchased at the Clatsop Community College Library until 4:00 PM 1/30/01; at the CCC South County Center, 1761 North Holladay, Seaside (738-3346) through 11/28/01; at Old Town Framing, 1287 Commercial, Astoria, until 4:00 PM 11/30/01’ and by phone at 338-2473 (ticket reservations). The box office the Performing Arts Center opens one hour prior to the performance
